Dayton April 12th 1844

My Dear James } Last week I received a letter from you stating that you had purchased in the Town of Steubenville a residence for you and I and also a request for me to come by the first of May and shelter under the hospitable dwelling. I could not tell at first what to write as I had partly declined all idea of going to the Eastward and had some expectation of getting the cashier place for the company of which I wrote you in my last. But upon the whole I have concluded to move to your Town if you think the time of my coming will not be too late. I have spent some days in the forming the company but finding so much quibbling for self interest among the Methodists I declined all idea of having any thing to do with it I am very certain they will do me good. And to stay here I cannot even think of it on the account of its being unhealthy attho I can live here as well as any where if it was healthy and could pay up something for my family

I am certain I could pay for one half of your purchase in two years from the finances of a school of common magnitude if I were there and could have health, My expenditures resulting from sickness since I came here including Doctors bill, house rent and loss of time will amount to $300 nearly. and I have not been here quite two years yet. It will be out of my power to move as soon as you mentioned in your last on the account of Sally. She in her situation could never stand the journey, and the roads so bad that I could not get along. I have already began to arrange my business for the journey and will, I think without fail no preventing providence be in your Town by the first of August at the furthest. Sally is uncommonly anxious for such a move. If you think I cannot make out by coming later than you requested me I want you to communicate it in your next letter. You should consider that a man with a family cannot pull up his stakes and go at a moments warning he must have time. If I move to your Town I should like to have a school of all Latin and Grammar scholars if such an one could be obtained. I hope to hear from you shortly after the reception of this letter.
