Dear Sir or friend,

I regret very much that I have not written to you sooner. I therefore this day came to a final conclusion that I would write. I am happy to inform you that I am yet blessed with a good health and also my family are well. And I am still more happy to tell my old friend that I am yet in the service of my Lord. I have not yet forgotten how pray and do pray every day with hopes that the Lord will bless my soul when death calls my body to the cold grave, where many of our old friends have gone. Both of my brothers have been called away since we have come to our Mo. home and I am determined to meet them in heaven where we shall part no more. I hope to that you are yet in the service of our great father. Suffer me to say, however much you may, to continue for our time may be short that in this world.

However gret I do wish that you would meet with an opportunity to visit us again. Indeed it would gratify me very much. Above all you must write to me soon. Give my respect to all my _____ friends and to the church members.
